C., England, the India, China and Colonial Outfitters of gentlemen's hosiery and underwear, write: "We have found great benefit from the use of St. Jacobs Oil, more especially for the cure of rheumatism and sciatica, and we have much pleasure in adding our testimony in its favor."

Run Over.

A colored boy on the north end of Lamine street yesterday attempted to jump on the front end of a country man's sled while it was moving, and falling he was run over. He was picked up and taken home seriously injured.

Gaiety at Georgetown.

The concert given at Georgetown, Friday night, for the benefit of its library association is reported to have been a complete success socially and financially. The music both vocal and instrumental was unusually fine while the recitations, dialogues and tableaux were of a high order of perfection. The affair was enjoyed by a very large crowd and the proceeds netted the association a handsome sum. The entertainment is to be repeated in the near future.

A Bad Case.

The case of a ten year old boy whose father is absent from the city, was reported to the BAZOO yesterday, which if true, certainly demands investigation. It is asserted that a certain saloon keeper furnished the boy with liquor until he was beastly drunk, and then stowed him away in a second story room where he lay all night without fire or covering and was discovered yesterday morning still drunk.

Died.

Mrs. John Kipp died at her home in Georgetown, yesterday, aged 35 years, after a long and painful illness. The funeral will take place from the residence to-day.

WHAT THE BAZOO WOULD LIKE TO SEE.

—Freeze again.
—A railroad north.
—Billy Steele bring the capital with him in March.
—The poor get all the necessities of life they need.
—The man who does not kick about hard times.
—A band that could make better music than Sedalia's own.
—The lively stables make more of a harvest than they are now.
—Miss Allen have a rousing audience for her entertainment on the 30th inst.

PERSONAL.

—Rev. A. J. Van Wagner returned last night from Kewanee and Chicago Ill.
—Miss Lillian Peck, of Carthage, is visiting relatives and friends in this city.

Hog Cholera.

A gentleman who came up from Benton county yesterday, informed a reporter that a very large number of cases of hog cholera were being reported in various localities among the stock hogs. He says, further, that it is noted as somewhat singular that fattened hogs are exempt from the epidemic.

HEADLIGHTS.

—A freight train on the Wabash was derailed in the yards at East Hannibal Thursday by a broken rail. Sixteen cars were scattered promiscuously along the track for some distance. An engine went on a side track to pull one of the wrecked cars away from the track when it struck a broken rail and was thrown off. The tender turned entirely over. The accident caused no delay to other trains.

—The St. L., K. & N. W. was among the unfortunate also. A broken rail derailed fourteen cars near Kisseneger station. A construction train was sent to the scene and it was expected a track would be built around the wreck. The passenger trains were delayed several hours by the accident.

Outrageous Proceeding.

It was reported to this office yesterday that a man, whose name could not be learned, met Frank Monroe on the street while he was selling the BAZOO Saturday morning, and told the lad that if he caught him selling copies of the BAZOO in the future that they would be taken from him and destroyed. Frank is a great support to a widowed mother and a very worthy boy about twelve years of age.

Is this the result of the attempted persecution of the BAZOO by the typographical union? Can it be that members of the typographical union, backed by competing papers, take this method to suppress a paper in its own way?

How long will the people countenance such outrages to be committed upon a boy who dares to try to make a little money to assist in the support of a widowed mother?

Wanted—To Exchange.

The person who took my overcoat by mistake (?) at Siche's Park, on the night of the Firemen's Ball can exchange for his own by calling at Frank Shultz, the hatter.

"ROUGH ON ITCH."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ringworm, tetter, scab, rheum, frost-bite, chilblains.

—The "Bazoo" is the only paper in Sedalia receiving Associated Press dispatches.

Wedded.

Wm. F. Hardesty and Miss Martha Z. Horn called on Judge McClung yesterday in the role of ardent admirers, but when they departed from his office it was stated they were man and wife. Mr. Hardesty is a resident of Centerville, and the happy couple will make their home there in future.

A Colored Crank.

The sheriff of Johnson county yesterday brought to Sedalia a crazy coon named Robert Ousley, whom he claimed was a citizen of Pettis county, and demanded of Sheriff Murray to take charge of him. As Ousley's family are now residing in Warrensburg, and the Johnson county authorities failed to send the necessary documents and proofs, Sheriff Murray very properly declined to assume the responsibility, and told the Johnson county parties to take him back home. This they did not do, however, but removed him to Lincolnville, doubtless with the intention of abandoning him there. Should they do so, however, the probabilities are there will be further notice of the case required.

Their First Case.

The case of Isa Morton vs. the Missouri Pacific Railroad company in which the plaintiff sought to recover damages for goods claimed to have been lost while in possession of the company for transit, and which was yesterday decided by jury in the circuit court adversely to the plaintiff, obtains importance from the fact that it is said to be the first case on record in Pettis county wherein a jury has rendered a verdict in favor of a railroad company.

Hollenbeck's Side.

The following card from a well known citizen in regard to the article in Thursday's BAZOO, containing the statement made by Mrs. Helena Weshburn, is cheerfully given a place, as the BAZOO has no means of knowing the merits of the case. The matter was given just as stated, and as the most vigorous search of the whole police force failed to reveal Mr. Hollenbeck's whereabouts there was, of course, but one side to the story, and this one, though late, is entitled to like consideration.

CALHOUN, Mo., Jan. 22, 1885.

Editor BAZOO.
There appears in your this morning's issue an article which is rather to the discredit of Mr. E. O. Hollenbeck, of this place. In justice to Mr. Hollenbeck, will you please make a correction? There was not a word of truth in the statement made by the woman. Mr. H. did not take a cent from her.

Truly, C. E. G.

A Change.

Deputy Circuit Clerk Brady has purchased the abstract books and franchise of Mr. Henry and will shortly take charge of that office. Mr. Brady's reputation as a thorough book keeper, accountant and court clerk is too well known to need commendation. In addition to this he has also had long experience in the abstract business and that he will prove the right man in the right place and meet with unbounded success there is no doubt.

The Only Great External Remedy.

Those eminent chemists, Professors Doremus and Battershall, endorse Benson's Capsic Plasters.

TO THE PUBLIC.

A Few Words as to the Boycotters and Boycotting in General.

Yesterday the BAZOO published an abstract of the minutes of the Western Associated Press of one year ago and the action of the association in reference thereto at its late session. As to any denials thereof by the parties concerned the BAZOO has nothing to do. The minutes of the prior meeting have been printed for almost a year and were circulated to members and interested persons, including these parties. They bear the official seal of the association as approved by it in session and until now they have remained unquestioned as to veracity. In addition to this, the communication as published is a correct transcript of the original which also bears the official seal and signature of the association, now in the possession of the BAZOO, and the same will appear in the proceedings when published.

AS TO THE FIGHT.

The BAZOO, as has been heretofore intimated, proposes to keep the even tenor of its way standing entirely upon its own merits and disdaining to stoop to answer the contemptible falsehoods promulgated by a rabble whose principle is no principle, and whose aim is to tread under foot, law, order and right. But feeling that the time has come and the painful necessity has been brought about by their own acts, when, as a conservator of truth, justice and right, and a champion of civil order, the BAZOO should give to the public an exposure of the true inwardness of this affair and what the inevitable consequences of their unchecked lawlessness must lead to, it will do its duty in as few words as possible, of the BAZOO as a friend to honest labor it seems unnecessary to speak, but it may not be out of place to say that at this office can be found a complete file of the paper from its first number of fifteen years ago up to this date, and if there is a man, woman or child in the whole country who can come to this office and point out an article, word or line which in any manner or form, directly or indirectly attacks or reflects upon honest labor or laborers, or upon legitimate labor organizations, either editorially or locally, the manager would be pleased to have them do so.

The BAZOO claims to be the honest champion of honest enterprises, from the lowest to the highest step of the ladder, and the advocate of harmony between capital and labor and the bitter enemy of every class of monopoly. Now as to

of the present troubles. Ever since the organization of what is known as the Typographical union in Sedalia it has been an active and aggressive agent for the establishment of one of the most tyrannical and lawless monopolies that can be conceived of. It has sought to compel publishers to discharge every printer in Sedalia who would not join it. It demands the employment of none but members in the offices of the city. If the BAZOO should consent to this it would have to discharge men, who, for fifteen years have served it faithfully, and who are among the best citizens of Sedalia, to replace them with men without character, standing, ability, or means, who are not citizens and will not serve their employer's interests, nor contribute to the general welfare. This may be plain talk but the BAZOO stands ready to substantiate it.

THIS TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION,

as a labor organization for the advancement of the craft is a failure:

First, because it requires no moral accountability or mechanical perfection from its membership.

Second, because it depends on bulldozing and coercion to fill its ranks, instead of its merits to assist and advance their welfare.

Third, because a man can commit no crime that will lead to or require his expulsion.

THE PRESENT ATTACK.

Because the BAZOO has refused to submit to the foregoing dictums and still keeps in its employ good men who have refused to affiliate fraternally in such an institution as this. It has always had the enmity of such members as those designated in a previous article in the BAZOO, who have sought by every means to wage war against it. At the beginning of the present difficulty these characterless hounds originated a plot which unfortunately for the union, because of its faulty organization, it was compelled to abet.

The design was to get a sufficient number of men employed on the paper to agree to demand its being made a union paper and on refusal to substitute a "walk-out" to be followed by a boycott.

There was at the time two union men at work in the office, neither of whom so far as the BAZOO can say, were made aware of the design. The other employee, however, were approached by a man well known to the manager of this office and two of them enticed into the affair and made members of the Union secretly. These parties then went to the other printers and demanded of them that they should join the union and plot or they would be discharged. The things came to the ears of the manager, he called the men up and they admitted the truth of the whole affair and were discharged. This led to the other two union men being ordered by the union to withdraw. They obeyed and the walk out of two men was followed by the boycott which would have been instituted anyhow.

AS TO THE BOYCOTT.

It is for the people to say whether they propose to submit to a principle so subversive of every right guaranteed under the constitution of the United States. If the day has passed when the citizen is to be guaranteed protection in the peaceful pursuit of health, happiness and prosperity and the right to follow the dictates of his own conscience the sooner it is known the better.

If these men have the right to band together and say to their fellow craftsmen, "unles you join us you will not be allowed to carry on your trade as a journeyman, you shall be barred from gaining a living by the trade you have spent your life and means to learn."

If these men can band together and say to the women of the land you shall not become printers, no man shall be permitted to employ your services as printers.

If these men can band together and say no man who has invested his means in a printing office shall be permitted to do business except under rules and regulations prescribed by us.

If these men can band together and compel the merchant, the mechanic, the lawyer, the physician and all other people to advertise only when and where they shall say, can't read or support or subscribe for or patronize only such papers as they may designate.

If these men have the right to band together for these purposes and to do these things, they have the same right to prescribe what a man shall eat, what a man shall wear, what church he shall attend, what prices he shall receive for his goods, whom he shall marry, when and where he shall visit and in all other things do their beck and bidding.

But the BAZOO denies that they have any such rights. It denies that they have the right to compel it to accept their services and disperse with those of better men, who have grown up with the paper, who have prospered with it, who are an honor to society, and a benefit to the community. It denies they have the right to dictate to the business man the terms upon which he shall carry on his business. It asserts that the law of the land has the sole right of supervision, and that it is framed to protect, not to coerce. Is there a statute in the whole code of our laws that compels any man to join any secret association in order to become qualified to follow his trade? Is membership in an association without even a single moral or mental requirement and scarcely a physical one a necessary adjunct to proficiency in any craft? Is a principle which demands the displacement of honorable, honest skilled men for the advancement of immoral and inefficient ones right and to be encouraged? These are the questions for the public to answer. Not only must they answer them but act upon them. And by them they must stand or fall. If any man believes such principles are right then let him boycott the BAZOO and boycott every honest industry. If they are wrong and calculated to ruin the best interests of the community and the dearest rights of the individual then boycott the boycotters. Aye, make him amenable to the law he seeks to override and stand by principle, manhood and personal liberty.

Can't Find His Wife.

Knobloster, Mo., Jan. 24.—[Special]—Mrs. T. J. Summers, living north of town, left home last week on a visit to friends in Warrensburg, and on Wednesday morning started to return home, since which nothing has been heard of her. Today Mr. Summers telegraphed to several points, but could find no trace of his missing spouse.

BAD BILL.

How William Simons Was Caught and Not Caught.

The Exploits of a Desperado Who Is Wanted in Sedalia.

The following from the Nevada Mail will be read with interest by those who remember the man Bill Simons therein mentioned: "Within the past few weeks Bill Simons has made for himself a record as one of the most daring horse thieves on record. He was raised near Clayton, where he bears the reputation of a desperate character."

On the 11th Bill went to the house of a man named Snow, who lives near Clayton, got his dinner, and late in the evening he mounted one of Mr. Snow's horses and rode off in the direction of Kansas. Men were sent in search of Simons, and notice of his apprehension sent broadcast over the country.

Sunday evening a telegram was received at Clayton from Chantanooga, Kansas, saying that Simons had been captured there, and Squire Weyand started at once for that place, out when he got there the man who was so much wanted had gone.

Simons was making for the Indian nation, and had been warned that the authorities were in pursuit of him. He had stopped for the night, at a cabin some distance from town. The officers knew where to find him, and being so confident of his capture telegraphed that he was secured, so that no time would be lost in returning him to Missouri, but their plans failed to work as well as they expected.

About midnight the cabin was surrounded, and sure enough, Bill Simons was there. He was dressed in "cow boy" style, with two big navy revolvers in his belt. The natives were turned over to his captors, and he was put on a horse, and with the party started for town. Some of the guards were walking, to keep themselves warm, and when a skirt of timber was reached Simons drew a revolver from one of his leggings and dashed off. In the darkness and underbrush he was soon hid from view of his guards.

A short distance from where he made his escape Simons left the horse he was riding and stole another one from an Indian woman named Mrs. Silver. It is thought he came back to Missouri, and search has been made for him about Clayton for the past few days.

Mr. Snow's horse was returned to him. Bill Simons is about 28 years old. Dr. Holmes, who called on the Mail Thursday, says it is reported about Clayton that Simons is wanted at Sedalia to answer to a charge of murder, committed some time ago. Also that there is about $200 offered for him. The doctor also thought that the climate around Clayton would not be very healthy for Simons at this time.

The Weather.

Yesterday was characterized by a more moderate temperature with cloudy weather and a slight snow fall in the afternoon; the wind shifted to the north and after sundown began to blow briskly from that quarter with increased cold. Following are the bulletins reported to the BAZOO from its correspondents:

Parsons, Jan. 24.—Light fall of snow this morning. At 6 p. m. is turning colder, cloudy with strong north wind.

Denison, Jan. 24, 6 p. m.—Cloudy and quite cold, no snow or rain.

HARD ON HURD.

A Severe Experience in the Oregon Wilds.

Snowed in for two Weeks by Forty Feet of Snow.

Charles S. Hurd, a brother of the well-known and popular ex-Sedalia, J. W. Hurd, formerly of the Sedalia Missouri Pacific car accountant's office, but now car accountant of the B. C. R. & N. Co., at Cedar Rapids, arrived in this city yesterday from an extended tour through Canada and the far west. Mr. Hurd says he visited California, Oregon and a number of western states and territories and made an extended trip up the Columbia river. The story of his travels is one of great interest and well told but too long to be given in detail but his description of the famous snow block-de during the holidays is worthy of special mention. He says he left Portland, Oregon, on the 26th day of December, in a severe snow storm. A travel of twenty hours by rail brought them without incident or mishap to what is termed on the Columbia river. Here the snow which had fallen to a depth of many inches had drifted into the valley and the cuts to such an extent as to reach a depth of six or seven feet and their trails was brought to a standstill. Hardly had this occurred when an immense avalanche came down in front of them, burying the track to a depth of forty feet.

"THE DALLIES"

Finding it impossible to attempt to proceed in the face of such an obstruction, preparations were made to return to the next station, fifty-eight miles distant, but hardly had the retreat begun when came down in the rear, completely hemming in the train and burying part of the cars beneath it. Here was a dilemma indeed, for which a solution or remedy was difficult, but the passengers, to the number of nearly 200, had to make the best of it and await the statement of the terrible storm and the coming of relief from outside. Two days and a half were spent in this anxious manner when their hearts were gladdened by the arrival of a party from Portland with provisions and other comforts, which were conveyed over the now frozen obstruction in tobaggies by hardy mountaineers at the

as the least slip would plunge them down the precipitous thousands of feet to instant death. After the arrival of the relief party, however, some fifty of the more hardy passengers accompanied them on their return and succeeded in reaching the station 58 miles distant after untold hardships. Mr. Hurd, however, remained with the others at the cars and says that hands were sent in to supply them with fuel of which there was plenty in the surrounding pine forests.

The company secured the services of 1,000 men at $2.50 per day and board, who endeavored to dig the train out so as to permit its return to Portland.

THE WORK WAS AN IMMENSE ONE and necessarily slow, but after much labor the train had almost reached an open track when another storm and another slide came down as bad if not worse than the first, and it was only after two weeks of confinement that the train was released and the passengers again reached Portland. He says the winter soon after broke and they were able to proceed as the winter weather in that section, though quite severe, lasts but two to four weeks. The present winter, he says, has been unequalled in the history of the country, the oldest settlers and the most aged Indians agreeing they never saw its equal. During the severity of the storm, Mr. Hurd says the thermometer ranged from 40 to 60 degrees below zero.

Louise Sylvester.

There was a large attendance at the matinee yesterday to see "Fanchon, the Crick-et", and, as on the night before, the play and company were heartily appreciated.

At the night performance given as a testimonial to the band, by Miss Sylvester, there was only a fair audience. "Juli's Ferret" was the play, and gave the popular actress the opportunity to display her great versatility in the assumption of the seven different characters. Her singing and dancing was much applauded. At the close of the first act she received a recall in company with Mr. Barry Maxwell, who, as "Solomon Novikoff" was very funny, d's-playing excellent comedy powers.

Charles H. Mestayer was good as the villainous "Wesley Marston." John Hay Cosser played "Howard, the detective," quietly and effectively. Misses Marlowe, Robinson and Noah played their parts nicely. The balance of the company were good.

The singing and dancing introduced throughout the play was an enjoyable feature. The band discoursed delightful music.

This engagement made Miss Sylvester many new friends and admirers. It is quite probable that she will return later in the season and appear in her original role of "Sincerity Weeks" in "A Mountain Pink."

Will You Build the Road.

The following letter from Mr. Bush explains itself. Will our people meet Mr. Bush in his honest endeavor to build another road out of Sedalia?

MARSHALL, Mo., Jan. 23.

EDITOR BAZOO.—I will be at Sedalia, on next Thursday evening, January 29th inst. to learn what the people of Sedalia will do towards building a broad gauge railroad from Marshall to Sedalia, and will be pleased to meet them at such place and hour, that evening, as they may determine.

Respectfully Yours, Wm. D. Bush.
